

Table Cover Skin

May 2010

Design by Teija Losoi

Ordinary tablecloths are large and clumsy, and often hide a table's form. Nevertheless, a tablecloth can also hide an old, ugly or inappropriate table inside its fabric. The purpose of designing Skin was thus to design a tablecloth that can cover a table but still show its shape. Skin fits onto tables's form and wraps it, enveloping it. Skin's stretchable fabric complies with many different sizes of table, making it also easy to dress and undress. The tightness of the table cover can be adjusted by tightening the strings and changing the size of the hole underneath the table.
